Alarming O&P Provisions Included in the President's Proposed Budget

The President's Budget for Fiscal Year 2017, sent to Congress by President Obama on February 9, contains some wording that could cause concern and possible panic in the O&P community. Page 72, under the heading "Provide Authority to Expand Competitive Bidding for Certain Durable Medical Equipment" contains the text "This proposal expands the competitive bidding program to additional categories, including: inhalation drugs, all prosthetics and orthotics, ...". (Read the full excerpt.)

The excerpt from the Budget Message should be taken in the context that it is unlikely to see the light of day in an election year with this Congress. AOPA has continually kept the O&P community aware of the prospect of expanded competitive bidding even though the current statutory provisions limit competitive bidding to Off-the-Shelf (OTS) orthotics, which CMS has continually pushed the envelope on in expanding the number of eligible devices defined as OTS.

The President's Budget Message is another wake-up call for O&P being in the gun sights for competitive bidding even though it is unlikely in the very near future. It is also unlikely that a Republican Congress would enact any law with ramifications that an amputee veteran would be perceived as potentially receiving their prosthesis in a UPS delivered brown box (political perception sometimes is at least as important as reality).

However, this sends a clear message that AOPA needs to continue with its vigilance about preventing the expansion of competitive bidding. AOPA will continue to be your advocate on Capitol Hill, educating lawmakers about the realities of providing high quality O&P care in an increasingly hostile regulatory climate. AOPA will continue our work behind the scenes fighting harmful RAC audit practices, attempts at expanded competitive bidding, and sharing the message that orthotists and prosthetists are healthcare providers and not DME providers. Member dues make this advocacy possible and this year is no exception. If you have not renewed your 2016 membership, now is the time. And share with your colleagues that all O&P practices need to join in to strengthen our efforts.

If this is what the federal government has in mind for the future of your business, can you really afford NOT to be a member of AOPA?

Articles Published in the Military Medicine Journal on Cost-Effectiveness of O&amp;P Care, and OTS Orthotics

All AOPA members will be receiving in the mail a copy of the recent Military Medicine Supplement. Military Medicine is the official journal publication of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States (AMSUS), and this edition arises in conjunction with the topics covered at the December annual meeting of AMSUS.

There are two articles that are very important to all AOPA members which are included in the edition. Most members are aware of the Dobson-DaVanzo study on cost-effectiveness, which demonstrates, using four years of Medicare data, that timely O&P intervention saves payers' money (the study has been a central feature of the www.MobilitySaves.org website, and you may wish to take a look there also). Dr. Allen Dobson, the author of this research, presented his work at the AMSUS meeting, and the attached manuscript will make this work widely available for citation for use by payers (including both Medicare and private sector providers), and others to show the value of O&P care (page 18).

Secondly, this edition also includes the manuscript developed by a Multi-Disciplinary Task Force headed by John Fisk, M.D., with physician representatives from both physical medicine and rehabilitation, and orthopedic surgery, a physical therapist, and certified O&P professionals around key issues on the orthotic treatment team, distinctions between OTS and customized orthotics, the importance of the orthotist's notes and records, and other key clinical issues (page 11). This publication is particularly timely in establishing this valuable consensus viewpoint at a time when orthotic care, and its reimbursement are attracting greater attention and scrutiny.

There are also several reasons why we are especially pleased to see both of these articles appearing in Military Medicine. This journal is a peer-reviewed medical journal, listed in the Index Medicus, which conveys substantial credibility for these papers, placing it in the top tier for purposes of medical citations, and because of the importance of topics covered in this journal to Congressional Appropriations and Department of Defense matters, Military Medicine is circulated to all Congressional Offices, giving these messages great reach to our lawmakers.
